Summer in Maine.

There is no State in the Union probably where the summer attractions are more varied than in Maine. With a coast unsurpassed for the number and beauty of its bays and islands and rugged mountains overlooking the most picturesque shores with innumerable lakes and rivers such as few countries can boast, bordered by luxuriance that would be the admiration of travelers in foreign lands; with fish and game in abundance to attract the sportsman, and with a climate of which all who have ever tried it are ready to extol the invigorating qualities; with all these attractions it has been a wonder that the leading populations of our resort cities have not more extensively supplied the State in which to enjoy the cool breezes.

We are pleased to believe that an ample growth in the knowledge of our natural advantages for pleasure and health that is now setting more this way. There are certain accommodations requisite to watering places and country resorts in order to make them popular, and we believe the lack of these has conduced largely to discourage people from coming to Maine. We know there is a lack in the gorgeous and extensive style of livery and other arrangements that characterize where draw the crowd of fashionable resorts. There are people who will not have their luxuries even to enjoy the richness of the scenery and the freshness of the ocean breeze with which we are surrounded. And hence we have had simply the difficulty of presenting the rough face of nature to compete with the refined hubbub of Newport and Saratoga.

Nevertheless, we believe our watering places in this respect, will be rapidly improved soon now that travel will more extensively this way. Even now improvement is progressing on which will make many of our resorts more desirable. What we especially need is to call the attention of the people generally to the fact that there are places in the State of Maine where they can be more pleasantly and healthfully entertained for less money than elsewhere, and much more economically. We believe that Mount Desert, Moosehead Lake, and many other coast and lake sites are inferior to many elsewhere which are so popular that prices have been run up beyond a moderate point. Even improvement, we believe, would be followed by a large increase of visitors.

The Tribune says the Democrats have nominated as candidate for Congress in the Third District of Illinois Gen. E. B. Washburne, resigned. The nomination of a Democratic candidate of any name who starts with any expectation of electing him in the Third Illinois, would sufficiently indicate that the party are demoralized. But to the fact beyond a doubt they add the name of their candidate, by following resolutions:

Resolved, That the National bank circulating machine called money is a swindle on the people, and a swindle on the people is necessary evil that only exists through the sufferance

Resolved, That the Five-Twenty bonds should be paid in lawful money.

Meaning, of course, the Nationals bank notes aforesaid.

No Permanent National Debt.

The London Times exhibited more than the usual degree of intelligence in the following remarks on American topics when it said:

Apparently the Americans are not yet tired of looking into their affairs. Themselves have accounts of a very serious character to render, but we do not see that they can shut their eyes to it, if not out of mind. Perhaps the Englishman out of fifty can say, within two millions or so, what is the amount of our national debt, or whether it is rising or falling; indeed we hardly know how to inform ourselves as to be acquainted except from the statements annually made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer; and the Americans won't keep their skeleton in the cupboard. They take it out on the floor every month and put the bones together, and count the joints, and go through the whole articulation with extraordinary precision and relish. A dozen times a year at the very least our own telegrams report the exact dimensions, weight and condition of the American debt as just certified by authority, with its increase or decrease, as the case may be, since the last stock taking, a week or two before. Sometimes the figures appear to go up, sometimes down; but they are displayed to the world nation in black and white, and with an official certificate of accuracy. The meaning of all this is that the Americans do not look upon the debt in which we look on ours. They are determined not to regard it as a permanent burden. We, having learned patience under our load, are content to provide the interest annually required, and have the principal to the credit of itself. In spite of fact, some of the most liberal financiers have been all-in opposed to any reduction of the debt when opportunities were offered. Mr. Gallatin, for instance maintained that it would be better to reduce taxation or simply accumulate than to bring the amount of debt down by a million or two; and the opposite school, represented by Mr Gladstone, can hardly be said to have prevailed to much purpose in giving effect to their views. But Americans of all schools appear to concur in the doctrine exactly contrary. However they may differ on other questions of financial policy, they are all one in maintaining that the public cannot be let off it must be gradually reduced and ultimately extinguished. The citizens of the Union are not going to carry this clog about them for ever.

Novel Sale. There was a curious auction sale in New York on Wednesday Last winter the Erie Railroad Company, wishing to construct a street railroad on Twenty-third street, New York, had a bill introduced in the Legislature to that effect. Commodore Erie soon being named as corporator. The Governor having vetoed a similar bill on the ground that such franchise ought to be sold and not given away, they took the hint, and had their bill so amended as to sell the franchise by public auction, and it was thus passed and signed. On Wednesday, the sale having been arranged, the right to construct this road was put up for sale in the Governor's room of the City Hall, Mr. Hall, Mayor of New York, doing the auctioneering. The first bid was by James Fisk, Jr., for a thousand dollars. It was followed by bids of a thousand at a time until it reached $50,000, and then more slowly up to $65,000. Here Mr. Fisk made another jump up to $40,000. The bidding was somewhat rapid and conditions less lively until it reached $67,000, which was Mr. Fisk's last bid. Two persons then had the matter all to themselves, and they contested for the franchise with such spirit that the figure of $160,000 was reached, and for that sum the franchise was sold to a gentleman named Voumans. He was obliged to give securities in the sum of half a million dollars that the road shall be built in four months from the date of the sale. When he announced as his sureties George Law and John Kerr, it was known that the road was in the interest of what is known as "the surface railway ring." It is a matter of some doubt whether the road will pay the interest on the cost and on the heavy price paid for the right of constructing and running it.

Republican county conventions in Pennsylvania are instructing their delegates to support the renomination of Gov. Geary, and he will undoubtedly be chosen.

Maurice Strakosch has bought a house in Vienna, and intends to settle permanently in that city.

Dr. Jackson's Report of Hat Case Water.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
11 Somerset Street,
Boston June 4th, 1869.

His Honor S. D. Thurston, Mayor of the City of Bangor, Me.:

Dear Sir—I received from you five gallons of water from Hat Case Pond, near Bangor, with a request that I should submit to a critical analysis. The water was put up in clean new glass demijohns, properly stopped with new corks which had been soaked in boiling water, and sealed in the most approved manner.

Knowing that it is proposed to introduce that water, by aqueducts, for the supply of your city, I took especial pains to make the analysis in every respect accurate, and I now present the results which I have obtained.

I took one imperial English standard gallon of the water, weighing ten pounds avoirdupois, and evaporated it carefully to small bulk in a Boring porcelain evaporating basin, and then transferred the water into a counterpoised platinum bowl or capsule, and completed the evaporation to entire dryness over a steam bath. The dry residue weighed 2.2 grains and was of a light brown color, from the presence of vegetable matters, common to all lake waters. That imperial gallon of the water was also separately evaporated, and the usual quantitative analysis made to ascertain the nature of the contained ingredients, and to guide upon the quantitative analysis, or the proportion of each ingredient in due order. The proportional analysis was made as follows, results obtained per gallon:

	grains.
Carbonic and Apocrenic Acids,	1.000
Silica from the Crenic Acid,	0.150
Oxides of Iron, Manganese, Alumina and a little lime from the
Crenic and Apocrenic Acids,	0.150
Sulphate of Soda,	0.365
Carbonate of Lime,	0.300
Peroxide of Iron,	0.100
Chloride of Calcium (or muriate of Lime),	0.079
Magnesia with traces of Soda,	0.056
Contents of one imperial gallon,	2.200

These results show that Hat Case Pond water is a little purer than that of Cochituate Lake, which supplies the city of Boston, and that it is much purer than the Croton river water, which is supplied to New York city.

The vegetable matters in Hat Case Pond water is a serious matter to contend with in filtering, and will form a coating on the surface of the filter which will require to be removed from time to time, and will cause considerable trouble and expense to keep the filters in order.

Very respectfully yours,
CHARLES T. JACKSON, M. D.,
State Assayer to Mass.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 7.

President Grant will go to West Point on Wednesday. On his return he will stop a few days in New York with his brother-in-law, Mr. Corbin.

An executive order has been issued by the President, establishing rules and regulations for the commission of citizens appointed by him to co-operate with the Administration departments in the management of Indian affairs. The regulations relate to the organization of a commission, giving it authority to inspect the records of Indian officers, to obtain information as to the conduct of affairs, to inspect personally or by sub-committee Indian superintendencies and agencies, to be present at the distribution of annuities, to present at council fires and councils, and advise superintendents and aid agents in the performance of their duties; also, to be present in person or by sub-committee at the purchase of goods for Indian purposes and inspect said purchases. It advises the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, &c. It provides for the communication to the Secretary of the Interior of suggestions in regard to changing instructions, to superintendents or agents, in the mode of purchasing goods; also, prescribing the mode of making complaints against superintendents, or agents, or other officers; also, for misterminating and submitting recommendations as to plans for civilizing or dealing with the Indians. All plans involving an expenditure of the public money must be acted upon by the executive, and the order of the Secretary of the Interior must be had before the expenditure is made. Under the rules all officers of the Government connected with the Indian service are allowed to afford every facility and opportunity to the commission and to their sub-committees in the performance of their duties, &c., and to co-operate with them in the most earnest manner in the general work of civilizing the Indians, &c.

Indian Commissioner Parker instructs the army officers assigned to duty as Indian agents and superintendents, to base their conduct in order to co-operate in locating the Indians on reservations assigned them and in civilizing them, and to use every effort to inform themselves respecting the condition of the Indians, and by impressing on the minds of the Indians on every opportunity the views of the Government, to prepare them to submit to the inevitable change in their mode of life to pursuits more conducive to a civilized state. They are instructed to keep constantly before their minds the public intentions of the Government and to hold their confidence by acts of kindness and honesty, and by dealing with them justly, and thus secure peace.

Peter Cooper, President of the New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company, having asked of Attorney General Hoar his opinion as to the legislation of Congress to extend its cables from the shores of Newfoundland to the coast of Maine, under the grant of the Legislature of that State. Congress having failed to pass an act authorizing the landing of said cables, the latter replies, reviewing the legal questions at length, and giving an opinion that the control of telegraphic communication with foreign nations, by means of cables leading from the shores of the United States, is within the constitutional authority of Congress to permit, regulate or prohibit, and that there can be no security for such enterprises while no authority or protection for the same has been derived from the acts of Congress.

The separate States may grant the enjoyment of their own rights of political privileges within their control, but they cannot grant rights which interfere with or limit the paramount constitutional authority of the United States. In concluding his long and elaborate opinion, the Attorney General says:

"I can have no doubt but that the connection of this country with foreign nations by means of the telegraphic cables, is the thing of national communication so vital and important, both in peace and war to the national interests, and under some circumstances possibly even to National existence, that it is in its own nature a subject for 'national control,' which it would be impossible for the Government or the people of the United States to allow to be held under the separate control of a single State or to depend upon arrangements made by one of the States with a foreign power, its citizens or subjects acting either in a private or corporate capacity."

Election Riot in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 7.

The election for Collector, Register and Surveyor and members of City Councils took place today. Major Richards, Supt of Police, had taken the precaution to secure to every voter the exercise of his franchise and at the same time to preserve peace at the polls. Long before daybreak crowds principally colored men, gathered at the polls and formed in line for voting, although the depot commenced until 7 o'clock.

There was throughout the city during the day great excitement at the respective polls. Shortly after 12 o'clock Towards noon several serious disturbances occurred. A dispute occurred between some colored men in the vicinity of the 6th precinct and there was a fight and arrests. Geo. Pool colored, Pool made a desperate resistance and a person who came to the assistance of the officer was attacked by the negroes, beaten badly and cut with a razor on the thigh. The officer succeeded in saving his life, but Pool escaped. With these exceptions matters were quiet and orderly.

It having been noised abroad that every navy yard employee who voted the citizens ticket would be spotted, the citizens, early this morning commenced passing a ticket similar in opinion to that of the Republicans. Many of the colored men in this manner voted the citizens ticket ignorantly.

About half-past one Samuel Dorsey engaged in a fight with sticks, stones and other missels, and the noise being heard at the polls a large crowd was attracted. Pistols being drawn increased the crowd largely—Officers arrested the parties and conveyed them to the station house.

About 1 o'clock, Julius Wallace (colored) was assaulted near the corner of 11th and M streets, in the Second Ward. Dr having scratched the regular Republican ticket, but was rescued by the police, some of whom were roughly handled by the crowd. But they succeeded in putting down the riot. Wallace driving off in his buggy, amid a shower of stones. About the same time Timothy Rogers, who had voted the Citizens' ticket, was assaulted and badly beaten before the crowd could be driven off. These disturbances occasioned a great deal of excitement in the neighborhood, and the report that riots were going on attracted from the other precincts of the 3d Ward almost the entire crowds, and for a time there were not enough voters left to form a respectable line.

Charles Stewart, one of the leaders of the colored citizens' movement, was sitting in a store on 12th street, when a large crowd of colored men gathered for the purpose of mobbing him; hooted away, however. Later in the day the crowd increased in front of the store, and Stewart having taken refuge in an upper room, the proprietor and his family were obliged to leave the premises. Finally, Stewart came out, under the protection of Mayor Richards and the police, the crowd shouting, "Here he comes! Hang him!" "Come out here and go to your dinner," &c. The crowd made a dash for him, but were beaten off by the mounted police. Lieut. Taylor and the dismounted police then formed hollow square around Stewart, who was in company with Mayor Richards and the police, and Stewart commenced to march off in that order. The mob hooted, swore and threatened to mob Stewart, and it required all the exertions of the mounted police to protect him from being killed on the spot.

Stewart was escorted from L Street to 13th, and thence to the corner of the alley where the polls were held, and cast his vote. This alley was packed with colored men, and scarcely had Major Richards left the polls with Stewart, when a volley of stones were thrown. The mounted officers warned them to desist, but the attack was re-commenced on the corner of K street, and the police fired into the crowd. This seemed to enrage the crowd, who threw stones and fired pistols. The officers then fired directly into crowd, when there was a general stampede, and the police pursued them closely.

Wm. Smith was badly shot, and it was reported that he was killed, but at last accounts he was living.

The wildest excitement prevailed after the firing, the negroes congregating in masses and yelling with rage against the police and calling out that the policemen and that was the one that killed Smith. In the meantime the police marched up and down thro' the crowds, preventing riotous demonstration. One man received a shot under the eye. An aged colored man received a shot in the head.

After the riot it was found that several policemen had been struck and bruised. The crowd did not seem inclined to leave the locality of the riot and three car were made toward the police and for a little time it appeared as if the rioters were determined to have a regular battle with the police. Mayor Bowen was on the ground soon after the disturbance and was busily engaged in endeavoring to restore order and quell the excitement.

CABLE NEWS.

London, June 7. The Liberal journals deplore the course adopted by the Conservative peers in respect to the Irish Church bill. The Times predicts that if the policy of rejection is carried out, the result will be that the House of Lords will be obliged to accept some Bill at a period with a sense of humiliation. The bill must pass the Nation; by the voice of the House of Commons it has been pronounced and cannot recede.

THE COMIC SIDE OF THE ENGLISH EXCITEMENT UPON THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune, Geo. W. Smalley, gives the following account of four comic cartoons displayed in the Charing Cross railway station, and which he says very well illustrate the popular feeling upon the subject of the Alabama claims:

In one of them a big bull dog stands at bay, assailed by a pack of yelping cURS supposed—though one does not exactly see why—to represent American claimants. The motto is, "Another Bull's Run, submitted for A-Merry-Can's consideration." Only, gentlemen, if you make this Bull run, it will be after you."

The second introduces the traditional stage Yankee in trowsers tucked into his boots, belt, garnished with bowie knife and revolvers, military cap, drawn sword between his legs, which stand under him in terror, although he is supported in the rear by a soldier who seems to be a cross between Irishman and Negro. He is in the act of presenting his papers, labelled Alabama and Canada, to John Bull, also typical but adorned with Lord Derby's head, sitting in his easy chair, a library and desk between him and his visitors. With one hand John holds back a bull dog struggling to get loose, with the other he presents a revolver at Jonathan and his body-guard. The legitimate composition is entitled "The Motley Crew," and for the intelligent public to which it appeals might not fit of its meaning, is elucidated by this brief dialogue—"Brother Jonathan—Well, Mr. Bull, I guess we have dropped in to bother how you mean to settle our little bill." John Bull—In the manner, Brother Jonathan, if necessary."

The Yankee re-appears in a third picture—boots, revolvers, &c., as before, trowsers embroidered with the National Stars and Stripes, tank hair, and slouched hat, just as you see him a thousand times. He is supposed to inhabit New England in the guise, and it is a little curious that all the Yankees are, in feature, costume and manner, types of the Southerner as he was before the war. His burly cousin is still in the arm chair, has turned his back upon one wife and evidently an unwelcome intruder, and is improving his mind by the perusal of a tory paper. A small dog, with a very doubtful expression of countenance, is undertaking a raid, which he does not seem to like, on the legs of the Yankee, while in a further corner the Emperor of the Fehmic Court quietly bides, but is a good likeness of Fechter, looks grimly on. For the title we have that this scene is a representation of Brother Jonathan's Ugly Dollar, and Jonathan is solicitously saying: "Well, John don't seem much inclined to buy these little Yorker Any more dollars he'll sell you to satisfy our National Honor." To which is added by way of editorial answer: "Quite as much as it is worth, depend upon it."

The fourth artist deals in color. A space of sky and ocean waste of deepest blue, in which the lion is reposing on the edge of the blue cliff a blue lion; breathing. Over-head, four paws guarding what looks like a blue tombstone, inscribed "Canada." Lower edge, tattooed with American arms and eagle, wings wide spread and beak pawing, swoops down on the couchant lion and the tombstone. Lion looks as if he didn't like it, but roars out in large type, "Don't you Dare." This masterpiece is dedicated with the very warmest feelings of respect and affection to the American eagle by his loving cousin, the British Lion."

The Penobscot Bay and River Railroad on the Move. The Portland Press says that at a meeting of the Directors of the Penobscot Bay and River railroad, held at Searsport, June 23, as previously directed by the corporators, books of subscription to the capital stock of the road were opened and about $60,000 subscribed on the spot—one Director, Capt McGilvery, subscribing $20,000. Measures were taken for an early survey of the route. This road connects Rockland and Bangor, making a through shore line to Portland. The Directors are sanguine of its early construction.

Penobscot County Fair Grounds—July Fourth. We understand that the Directors of the Penobscot County Fair Association are making arrangements for a grand time at their grounds on the coming fourth;—or rather the fifth of July. A grand series of trots will then come off which are expected to be ahead of anything of the kind ever held here. Some very fine horses from without as well as within the State are engaged to be present, and the names of those who have the matter in hand is a sufficient guaranty that nothing will be left undone to make the affair a perfect success. Efforts are also being made for other attractions upon that day, which will tend to bring into our city our friends from the adjacent towns and present them a fine bill of attractions in the way of celebrating the "Glorious Fourth." The Fair Ground Committee have been improving their grounds and putting things in good shape the present season, and in a few days they will issue their programme for the "Fourth." As there will be no other trotting on this vicinity on that day, we shall look for a large turnout of the lovers of good horseflesh at that time.

—Mr. A. H. S. Davis last week assumed control of the Farmington Chronicle. Mr. D. is a practical printer, and, no doubt, will continue the Chronicle in its present prosperity and usefulness. The former editor, Mr. Phillips, will immediately resume his post as Consul in Canada.

An Outrage. An affair took place on Centre street yesterday, not only disgraceful to the parties engaged in it, and to our city, but which narrowly escaped being a tragedy, in which some person either guilty or innocent, would have lost their life or limb. It seems that one Siddons, a champion of the prize ring, came to this city some days ago on a sparring tour. On Saturday, a man came from Boston after him, having sold that he was bail for Siddons for his appearance before the Boston Police Court. He brought with him to assist him, a burly fellow named Eaton. Yesterday morning, about ten o'clock, as we are informed, Eaton started with Siddons to go to the boat, where the other party was waiting to join them.—When the two men reached Bradbury's corner, Siddons turned around and started to run through Central street. Eaton turned in pursuit and drawing a revolver fired at Siddons, missing him, and also, fortunately missing all of the large number of persons who frequent that thoroughfare. The affair caused quite a crowd to gather, and Eaton was taken into custody and carried to the Watch House, and the facts reported to the Court, but for some reason for which we are unable to account he was set at liberty and allowed to return to Boston in the train without a trial. Such a high-handed outrage should not seem to us, have been punished to the extent of the law. It ought not be allowed to come down here from Boston and fire revolvers in our streets, to the endanger of the lives and limbs of our citizens, and return unmolested, as it indicates a lack somewhere. It is but justice to Marshal Bolton to state that he was absent from the city when the affair occurred, having accompanied the city government on their excursion to Passadumkeag, and did not return till afternoon. Judge Clark is also absent.

—The "Liberal Christian" of New York, says that the Rev. Charles Carroll Everett, of Bangor, has just finished a work of great labor and value, upon which he has consecrated the best thought and study of many years. Its title is, "The Science of Thought, a System of Logic." Those who have examined the manuscript agree in pronouncing it a work of remarkable ability, originality and intellectual completeness and grasp; in short, just such a book as we should expect from a man of Mr. Everett's thoroughly trained and well furnished mind. It will be brought out at an early day by William V. Spencer, of Boston, who has published a number of the best books, among which are the works of Alford and Martineau.

We find the following item in relation to our late Mr. Chase, who has just been transferred from Bangor to Dover, in the correspondence of The Observer:

"I congratulate your people—not on the loss of Mr. Chase, but, on the acquisition of Rev. Mr. Chase. You will find him to be the right man in the right place, and he will, in no way, dishonor the pulpit or the position of his predecessor. Like Mr. Marsh, Mr. Chase is an out spoken and effective laborer in the cause of the temperance field. We need many such men to break up the rum rings."

—Workmen commenced laying rails on the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad on Saturday, and the work will be rapidly pushed through.

—The Lumber Business on the West. Some idea of the immense amount of the lumber trade of the West may be drawn from the following figures of the amount of pine timber cut in the vicinity of Green Bay's operations in Minnesota:

The amount of pine cut during last season was as follows:

	Feet.
On the Wisconsin River	100,000,000
Black	100,000,000
Chippewa	200,000,000
St. Croix	250,000,000
Mississippi and Rum do	100,000,000

Making a total of 750,000,000 of feet in that region alone. This is more than any other State than Maine will be willing to claim to the title of the Pine Tree State.

Doric Lodge, F. & A. M., under dispensation, will be constituted at Monson on Saturday, July 31, under a charter granted by the Grand Lodge of Maine at its last session.

—We learn from the Maine Farmer that the evening devoted to Farmers' Meeting is interesting and useful. A feature of the last exhibition of the State Society, and to be renewed the coming fall at the forthcoming Fair of the State and New England Agricultural Society. The following topics are to form the subject of discussion each evening and the gentlemen named are to give the opening remarks: Tuesday, Sept. 7th, The Education for Farmers; Prof. M. C. Fernald, Principal of State Industrial College, Orono; Wednesday, 8th, Insects injurious to Vegetation; Dr. Gurdon B Loring, President New England Agricultural Society, Salem Mass. Thursday, 9th, The Diseases of Animals; Dr. S. H. Pewksbury.

—The annual Convention of the Somerset Musical Association will be held in Skowhegan, commencing Tuesday, Sept. 28th, and continuing four days, under the direction of Prof. L. O. Emerson, of Boston.

—According to the Reporter, Skowhegan does its part to furnish the facilities for healthful amusements. C. A. Williams & Co. make 50,000 pairs of skates this season. E. A. Robbins will turn out fully 2,000 croquet sets and W. C. Houghton & Co. 1000 sets. These are put up in neat substantial boxes and shipped to Boston and elsewhere.

—The Lewiston Journal learns that the Knights of St. Crispin intend holding a grand Anniversary Convention in Auburn Hall, on Thursday, June 10th, to be addressed by several speakers of note. A number of lodges from other cities and towns are expected to be present and parade the streets in procession.

—The Rockland Gazette says that the disorganization of the Post of the G. A. R. in that city will be good part owing to the loss of its books and papers, which were in possession of Adjutant Burpee, and were destroyed by the fire of last December. There is a good prospect of reviving the organization and that an effort will soon be made to that end.

Ocean Sales. The Biddeford Journal says: Before the troubles in Cuba, our manufacturers of sugar box heads used to sell them this firm in Portland engaged in shipping them to Cuba, for 70 or 75 cents a head. Since the revolution there, the firm has ceased exporting, for fear of the cargo's being captured. Joseph Hobson of Saco, thought he would try the experiment of shipping on his own account, and has landed there three heavy cargoes at a price of $3,50 a head in gold.

—Ex-Congressman T. A. Pike is in Ireland, and the Ellsworth American prints an extract from a private letter written by him in Dublin, in which he says that the "auld country" is so charming that he doesn't wonder that Pat brags about it, and that if he lived in Ireland he should certainly be a Fenian.

—The Hallowell House has been sold to Messrs. W. H. Philbin & Co., of Winthrop, manufacturers of boots and shoes. It is the intention of the purchasers to devote the building to the manufacture of boots and shoes; says the Gazette.

The Song of Eve to Cain.

Oh! rest ye, baby, rest!
Lookin'ook'd the west—
Now, tired of sunny play,
Upon the mother's breast
Oh! rest, my darling, rest

Thou first-born son of man,
In thine
New joy for me began,
Which seemed all dead to be,
When thou, a mournful boon,
From Eden smiled mon.

But more than Paradise
Was ours,
When thou with angel eyes,
Pure as the fretted dome,
Wert born all heavenly prize
Unknown in Paradise,

My happy garden-dove,
Where I
Made many a hopeful vow,
And every morning day
New blooms on each young bough—
My tireless rose my thou.

Heartless roam thy fruit,
Of bliss;
Adult, who am thy root,
And to the stem, the kiss
Its gleams that o'er thee shoot;
And fed, I feed thy fruit.

Thy father storm, and bride,
And
In thee yet undeserted
Shall soon be fully wrought,
Grow tall, and broad, and wide,
In thee, our hope and pride;

Opposition Invited. Competition Defied!

Despising the now fangled humbuggery of the age, the Manager does not announce a combination of TEN, NINE, SIX or FOUR CIRCUSES IN ONE, nor imposes upon the public money by the "Circus and Menagerie," which are invariably found to contain but a weak apology for either; nor does he deem it necessary to resort to a Dazzling STREET PARADE—the simply proposes to exhibit a fully developed and intelligent Circus performance, but supposes to many presented by the ordinary travelling exhibitions now in vogue, who simply keep the promise to the ears, and break it costly to the hope, in which he is pabled to announce the following list of
